Build with the sudden motivation to make pixel art, the Message Board is a 128x128 square of quartz with the sole purpose of being used as a map. The border is made out of lapis blocks and lime wool, and lavish corners displaying oak planks filled with black wool. The original pixel art of a script, quill, and ink bottle still exist as well as its slightly younger brother, the crafting table. Players are allowed to draw their own art and messages on the map.
